Supreme Court of British Columbia Hears CVRD Petition

Duncan, BC – A petition by the Cowichan Valley Regional District (CVRD) to enforce their zoning bylaw in relation to a Shawnigan Lake landfill facility and contaminated soil treatment facility will be heard in BC Supreme Court commencing Monday, November 2nd.

The hearing is expected to last 5 days, during which time CVRD legal counsel will present arguments and evidence to support the CVRD's position that the facilities at the South Island Aggregates' quarry in Shawnigan Lake are not permitted uses under the zoning for the property.

The CVRD is seeking an order, among other relief, that would prohibit the use of the property for such facilities.
